FOREWORD

In the last five decades the Archdiocese of Malta has assigned to DISCERN – Institute for Research on the Signs of the Times – the task of taking a census of Mass attendance at Sunday Mass. In fact, so far five such Censuses have been held, specifically in 1967, 1982, 1995, 2005 and last in 2017.

Census are very important to any State because it needs to quantify those whom it is to serve in various of life, especially the amount of food, the number of jobs through which its citizens earn their living, the houses necessary to accommodate them, the number of schools and Universities need at a point in time, the amount of social services it needs to provide and so. The Founding Fathers of the United States foresaw that the census was so important for the good governance of their country that they included the State's duty to take a census as part of the Constitution.

Today, some people question the importance of the census on two grounds, one is the financial outlay involved and secondly, others argue that what is achieved by a census can be achieved quicker and cheaper by means of a survey of a representative sample of the whole population. Others complain that a census involves an invasion of privacy.

These objections, although they have elements of truth in them, tend to ignore the fact that while a survey can give one a good overview of a population, it is of little help when one wants to act on the smaller geographic units within a nation.

In line with the standing practice started by Archbishop Michael Gonzi on the insight of Fr Benjamin Tonna, Archbishop Charles J. Scicluna saw that a census of a Sunday Mass Attendance would serve as a good tool for not only to take stock of an important part of the Church's Ministry – the celebration of the Eucharist – but also a good basis for pastoral planning. The ageing population of the clergy and the decrease of priestly vocations would have been enough reason to make good assessment in planning the way ahead in serving the People of God in this important area of the Church's ministry.

Hence, Archbishop Scicluna entrusted DISCERN – Institute for Research on the Signs of the Times – to conduct a Sunday Mass attendance census on Sunday, 3rd December 2017.

Any census involves not only work and the commitment of a large number of people. DISCERN owes them a great debt and gratitude. A special word of thanks goes to H.G. Archbishop Charles J. Scicluna and H.L. Joseph Galea Curmi without whose trust and support this census would not have got off the ground. The support, both moral and technical of the Board of Directors, namely Mr Reno Camilleri, Mr John Caruana, Dr Maureen Cole, Mr Michael Pace Ross, Professor Charles Savona-Ventura and Dr Sue Vella, and the Census Task Force consisting of Mr Reno Camilleri, Mr Michael Pace Ross and myself.

The deepest word of thanks is owed to the Staff and Volunteers of DISCERN; the researchers Ms Antonella Ellul and Ms Delia Mifsud Inguanez; the Office Staff Ms Priscilla Ciantar and Ms Graziella Grima; and DISCERN's volunteers: the Librarian Ms Ruth D'Amato and the other collaborators Ms Maryrose Camilleri and Ms Astrid Miller. These were the backbone of this research to whom I am infinitely grateful. The same can be said of the IT manager of the Curia, Mr Oliver Caruana, for his very specialized contribution to anything related to computerisation and his extremely supportive attitude.

Word of thanks goes also to Frs Vincent Borg, Gino Gauci and John Sammut for translating the Census questionnaire into French, Italian and German respectively.

At the parish level, without the work done by all the Parish Priests and the Superior of Religious houses together with the Parish Supervisors, the collection of data would have been impossible. A great thank you to all of them.

The smooth and generous collaboration of the National Office of Statistics is priceless. A special thanks goes to Acting Director General, Mr Etienne Caruana and the Head of Population and Migration Statistics Unit, Ms Dorothy Gauci.

Finally, thanks also goes to Mr Reuben Buontempo (Copyserve Ltd,) Mr Mario Caruana and his staff (Outlook Coop) and Mr Edward Farrugia (Progress Press Ltd).

As many will notice the Sunday Mass Attendance Census was a huge. However, with God's help it was a success.

INTRODUCTION

In the closing address of the Synod of Bishops on “Young People, The Faith and Vocational Discernment”¹, Pope Francis expressed his concern about two points. First, he re-emphasised that the Synod is “a protected space for the Holy Spirit” and not a Parliament. Then he expressed his second concern that “the purpose of the Synod is not a document... We are laden with documents. I do not know if this document will be effective outside, I do not know. But I know for certain that it must have an effect on us; it must work in us”.

It is needless to say that this Census is not comparable in importance to the Final Document of the Synod on Young People! Amongst other things, it contains neither doctrine nor pastoral strategies. However, it indicates numerically the importance which Catholics in Malta are giving to the Eucharistic Sacrifice described by Vatican II as the “the fount and apex of the whole Christian life”².

Some might look at the Census as irrelevant. Against this scepticism, it is worth remembering the Lord’s food for thought: “What will a king do if he has only ten thousand men to defend himself against a king who is about to attack him with twenty thousand men? Before he goes out to battle, won’t he first sit down and decide if he can win?”³ However, this scepticism can serve a good purpose. It ought to prod the Church to act immediately, because unless immediate pastoral action is planned and acted upon, this scepticism will become cynicism and this report will become, like the Pope’s quotation above, another document with which we are laden.

This necessitates a conversion on our part, that is, a change in the way we live and the customs we follow and promote. Julia Upton RSM⁴ rightly wrote that “ritual renewal has been part of the process, as has architectural design, but at the root has been the challenge of conversion”⁵.

Pope Francis gave us an antidote to this. This antidote he finds in the Ignatian Rule “Sentire cum Ecclesia” – to feel and think with the Church – which he presents in a nutshell. “I think of our Mother, the Holy Mother Church. [In the document], the last three items on holiness show what the Church is: our Mother is Holy, but we children are sinners. We are all sinners. Let us not forget that expression of the Fathers, the ‘casta meretrix’, the Holy Church, the Holy Mother with her sinful children. And because of our sins, the Great Accuser always exploits them, as the first chapter of Job says: he goes to and fro upon the Earth, looking for one to trap. This is why I have asked everyone... to say the Rosary, to pray to Saint Michael the Archangel, to pray to Our Lady to always shield Mother Church. Let us continue to do so”⁶.

In these last five decades, attendance at Sunday Mass has been regularly falling. It is a pastorally defeatist attitude to rationalise that this is a universal phenomenon. Nor is it healthy to give a partial explanation of this phenomenon by blaming only “the world” – the facile attribution of this phenomenon to the process of secularisation, a process about which several sociologists have become sceptical. It is hardly ever correct to give a mono-causal explanation of a social or religious phenomenon. It is a must to do what Jesus taught in the parable referred to above. It is time to examine our conscience and convert. It is a fact that at times our celebration of Mass swings between two unhappy extremes: at times it is full of pomp and spectacle, at others it is an outright inappropriate ritualisation of a religious experience. It is unfortunate that there are those who have distanced themselves from the word and spirit of Vatican II, which makes it clear that “Ceremonies however beautiful, or associations however flourishing, will be of little value [orig.Latin: parum proderunt] if they are not directed toward the education of men to Christian maturity”⁷. The footnote to this sentence, in the official text, is most relevant to the local pastoral situation: “Of what usefulness does shining precious stone on the wall have, when Christ is at on the verge of hunger in the poor people?”⁸

The Eucharist is the sacrament of unity and community. These two characteristics of the People of God cannot be built unless these are verified in a concrete way in daily life. In the Decree Presbyterorum Ordinis, the priests are asked to “examine all their works and undertakings⁹ to discern the will of God - namely, to see how their endeavours compare with the goals of the Gospel mission of the Church. Fidelity to Christ cannot be separated from faithfulness to his Church. Pastoral charity requires that priests avoid operating in a vacuum and that they work in a strong bond of union with their bishops and brother priests. If this be their programme, priests will find the coordination and unity of their own life in the oneness of the Church’s mission”¹⁰.

Ours is a Church which for centuries was immobile. The Clergy very often came from the élite class or associated with this class or held with it a patron-client relationship. This has brought about a clerical class and consequent clericalism among the mostly illiterate population. This clericalism became a cause of immobility which did not distinguish ecclesiastical customs from Church Tradition, the latter being - together with the Scriptures - a source of revelation. This clericalism, though to a much lesser, extent still exists in Malta. There are members of the clergy who want to stick, or return, to this comfort zone, hence resistance to change and the re-inventing of tradition in the same way Tourism Ministries around the world do to promote their market. If we want the people to understand the Church, clericalism has to be efficiently resisted. In as much as the clerical garb does not make one a priest or a monk, in the same way liturgical vestments do not make the liturgy religious.

There are those who argue that for people to return to the Church, the Church must accept and adapt itself to their customs. The great theologian Henri de Lubac reflected on this pastoral attitude: “The pursuit of adaptation brings along, like its shadow, the pursuit of success. But what will the norm of success be? Will it be obtained when everybody will have been pleased, when everybody will have understood, and when no astonishment or scandal will have been provoked? Such a success greatly risks being merely the mask of ineffectiveness. Nothing strong, nothing new, nothing urgent penetrates man’s mind without crossing resistance. Or would you think that Christian preaching should no longer be “scandal” and “folly” in the eyes of the world?”¹¹ Any further comment to the thought of such a theological giant is superfluous.

In the same vein, De Lubac writes about the popularisation of the Church: “The very success of an extreme popularisation is sometimes, in religious matters, a disaster. Mr X, for example, a brilliant professor, attracts a large audience to his classes and thus sheds, as everyone sees and acclaims, Christian influence. But on each occasion a few young men and girls, less docile, more demanding, not daring perhaps to stand opposed to the enthusiastic atmosphere, clench their fists in silence. These will be the masters of tomorrow..."¹²

Balasuriya was right in stating that "Renewing our covenant as expressed in the Eucharist today, therefore, requires also a new approach to ecclesial life: deep personal and interpersonal reflection, new theological accents, socio-political analysis and options, action and evaluation, forming of alliances, risk-bearing, new life styles, new modes of being Christian community, and a spirituality of the person and of the human community"¹³

It is this spirit and same frame of mind that Vatican II has addressed the need for renewal of the liturgy, so that leavers or absentees will return to Sunday Mass: "No Christian community... is built up unless it has its basis and centre in the celebration of the most Holy Eucharist; from this, therefore, all education to the spirit of community must take its origin. This celebration, if it is to be genuine and complete, should lead to various works of charity and mutual help, as well as to missionary activity and to different forms of Christian witness"¹⁴.

May Jesus, our only Hope, help the Maltese Church read the signs of the times and act quickly according to His Holy will.

METHODOLOGY

It is normal function of a Census to provide a comprehensive and reliable picture of a given population and its characteristics at a point in time normally referred to as "Census Day ". In contrast to other surveys, in which information is normally collected from a representative sample to arrive at a general conclusion about the population, a Census is based on the whole population itself.

Thus it is a unique tool that it gives one the best possibility of examining smaller populations or geographical areas, for example parishes.

The Sunday Mass Attendance Census of 2017 involves an attempt to count attendees at all Masses across mainland Malta on Census day.¹ It includes attendance at all Masses celebrated in all parishes, convents, chaplaincies, hospitals and elderly homes, schools, private residences and so on. This Census covers only Mass attendance in the Archdiocese of Malta and excludes the Diocese of Gozo. It was conducted on the afternoon and evening of Saturday 2nd and Sunday 3rd December 2017. The questionnaire utilised in the Census sought information on: whether the attendee had filled another form during any other Mass in the last two days; sex; age; civil status; place of birth; parish of residence; parish of residence in the 5 year prior to Census day; level of education; occupation; whether the attendee attended Mass on the previous Sunday; and whether the attendee intended to receive Holy Communion during Mass.

Catholic Population in Malta Obligated to Attend Mass

This Sunday Mass Attendance Census has two major differences from all previous censuses held in Malta. First, it was not held concomitantly with the National Statistics Office (NSO) Malta Census; secondly, in contrast with all other previous censuses, which worked on the assumption that the number of non-Catholics in Malta was minimal, this Census calculated the rate of Mass attendance on the basis of an estimate of the Catholic population in Malta and not the total population of Malta. Hence, strictly speaking, when one compares the figures and percentages of this Census with those of the previous ones, one is not comparing like with like. However, this should not imply that all comparison should be ruled out. Besides, like some of the previous censuses, this Census does not include the Diocese of Gozo.

Hence, in the workings of this Census, the population in Malta was weighted on the basis of a number of characteristics and estimates in order to arrive to a more accurate estimate of the total Catholic population in Malta which according to Church law was obliged to attend Mass on Sunday.

In order to calculate the attendance rate at Mass on Sunday both on an Archdiocese level and parish level, one had to make a studied estimate of the Catholic population aged 7 years and over present on mainland Malta on Census day. This estimate was arrived at by first taking the Maltese population of mainland Malta from data published by the NSO data.²

The second step was to calculate an estimate of foreign Catholics resident in Malta. For this purpose, use was made of published NSO figures of the total foreign population in Malta.³ The addition of estimated Maltese and Foreign Catholics gave an estimate of Catholics residing in Malta on Census Day.

¹ For the purpose of the census, whenever the term "Census day" is used it means Saturday evening and Sunday all day.

³ National Statistics Office News Release Population Statistics (Revisions): 2012-2016 12th February 2018 - Table 12 and Table 17

Canonically, however, there are Catholics who are exempt from the obligation to attend Sunday Mass, for example children under the age of seven; whilst others may be exempt for various reasonable causes, most common of which are illness or inability due to old age. There are other Catholics who were unable to attend Sunday Mass on Census Day because they were temporarily absent from Malta, for example those travelling overseas for business, work, leisure, hospitalisation or other reasons.

According to an NSO News Release on Population Statistics issued on the 12th February 2018, covering data on the total population of the Maltese Islands between 2012 and 2016, it is estimated that the total population in Malta at end 2016 stood at 428,091. This amount comprises both the number of Maltese and the number of foreigners residing in Malta which amounted to 375,633 and 52,458 respectively.

The results obtained from the Sunday Mass Attendance Survey show that 92% of people residing in Malta declared that they were Catholic. Moreover, according to a Special Eurobarometer published by the EU Commission entitled "Discrimination in the EU in 2012", as well as research from various sources reveal that 30.1% of foreigners residing in Malta declare that they are Catholics. Both these percentages were used to calculate the number of Maltese Catholics and Foreign Catholics in Malta separately which amounted to 345,582 and 15,790 respectively. Thus the estimated total number of Catholics in Malta as at end 2016 stood at 361,372 or 84.4% of the total population in Malta while the total number of people who are not Catholic was thus estimated to be 66,719 or 15.6%.

In order to arrive to a more precise estimate of the total number of Catholics that were obliged to attend Mass on Sunday, the categories of people which as was explained above were exempt from attending Mass was deducted from the total amount of Catholics. Hence on the basis of an NSO News Release on Population Statistics published on the 12th February 2018, children under the age of 7 and residing in Malta at end 2016 amounted to 29,503 that is 6.89% of the total population in Malta. Besides this, unpublished data obtained from Mater Dei hospital stated that on Census day 942 or 0.22% of the total population in Malta were hospitalised, while the Sunday Mass Attendance Survey of 2017 showed that 3% of survey respondents declared that they were too ill to attend Mass. On the basis of the latter percentage it was estimated that 10,841 people out of the Catholic population were too ill to attend Mass on Census day. This figure amounts to 2.53% of the total population in Malta. According to the NSO News Releases⁴ covering regional tourism demand⁵ and outbound tourism, it is estimated that 1,947 people and 8,718 were either in Gozo or abroad during Census Day. Both figures amount to 0.45% and 2.04% of the total population in Malta.

Hence, if one adds the percentage of people who are not Catholic, the under 7 year olds, the hospitalised and housebound and those in Gozo or overseas, one can estimate that 27.72% were not obliged to attend Sunday Mass. Therefore, a studied weighted estimate of the total Catholic population in Malta on Census day would amount to 309,421.

Census Attendance

In the Sunday Mass Attendance Census of 2017, a total of 121,384 questionnaire schedules were collected from 70 parishes which include questionnaires collected in Chaplaincies of Foreign Catholics. This amount comprises questionnaires which may have been filled by the same person more than once since attendees were asked to complete a questionnaire at every Mass of the Census weekend, regardless of whether they had already been to Saturday evening or Sunday Mass. Hence to avoid double counting, the questionnaire's first question was "F'dawn il-jumejn, imlejt xi formola bhal din waqt xi quddiesa?"⁶ A total of 9,521 people, or 7.84% out of a total of 121,384 questionnaires, answered that they had filled in a similar form. Similar to the methodology utilised in the previous Census, only the first questionnaire filled in by these attendees was entered in the attendees' database for analysis, while the second and third questionnaire filled in by the same attendees were excluded. Thus double or third counting of the same person was thus avoided. Apart from this, contrary to instructions given, there were 285 children under 7 years, or 0.23% of 121,384, who filled a questionnaire. Hence questionnaires filled in by children under the age of 7 years were also excluded from the total amount of attendees.

⁴ Published on July 2nd, 2018 and on February 15th 2018

Thus the exclusion of the above categories, which amounted to 9,806 questionnaires, from the total number of Mass attendees, brought the figure of attendees on Census Day to 111,578 attendees.

Catholic Parish Populations

Since the establishment of Local Councils, figures published by NSO distribute the national population by the boundaries of Locality and not by those of the Parish, and the boundaries of some parishes are therefore not the same as those of the Locality.

In order to obtain the population of each parish, DISCERN sought the assistance of the NSO to acquire the total population of each parish. DISCERN, through information taken from the Electoral Register 2017 and information obtained from the Parish Priests, made a list of all the streets falling within Parish boundaries. Then the NSO, using its own database, worked out for DISCERN the number of residents in each Parish.

For accurate estimations of parish populations by gender and age, NSO utilised both the Census of Population and Housing of 2011 and the population distribution by gender and age as in 2017. Data was also compared to the Sunday Mass Attendance Census data of 2005 in order to ensure that figures were comparable with respect to population growth. It is to be noted that this is an estimation exercise and relies heavily on the assumption that the distribution of the population by parish has remained the same since 2011. Also estimations do not take into account internal movements, creation of new streets and the change in building types in the streets.

Parish populations provided by NSO, were then weighted by DISCERN using the same parameters which were used with regard to Malta as described in earlier paragraphs. One must note that this weighting does not take into account differences in parish populations, such as differences in the number of non-Catholic people, due to lack of information in this regard.

Technical Note

The first task was to formulate the Census questionnaire Schedule. For the purpose of comparison, the Task Force set up by DISCERN, decided that this schedule should be very similar to that used in the 2005 Sunday Mass Attendance Census. Hence a first draft was formulated and discussed at length by both the Task Force and the Board of Directors of DISCERN. When agreement was reached, this schedule was sent to the Archbishop. This schedule was accepted by all concerned and the original Maltese version was translated into four major European languages, namely English, Italian, French, German and Spanish. In order to facilitate a quicker data entry which could then be analysed by SPSS, it was also decided to print this schedule in a way that it could be read by computer. For this reason DISCERN invested in a computer programme which could read these schedules.

⁶ English version: "Did you fill in a similar form during Mass in the last two days?". One should note that questionnaires were distributed in different languages according to the language of the Congregation. Hence, these versions were distributed: English, Italian, German and French.

The design of the Census schedules was commissioned to Outlook Coop and the printing was carried out by Copyserv Ltd, which later scanned these schedule in PDF format by Copyserv so that entries could be verified by Remark Office OMR. At this stage the Task Force formulated and printed the instructions which were to be given to the Mass celebrants, the Parish Census Coordinators, Supervisors and Assistant Supervisors. The Parish Priests were asked to choose as many volunteers in their parish who could be trained for the roles of Coordinators and Supervisors. The Parish Priests took this commitment seriously, to the extent that some of them had even attended the training sessions. Their cooperation is to be commended.

A list of 71 Parish Supervisors and 85 Assistant Supervisors were submitted by the Parish Priests. Several of them played the same role in the 2005 Census. The Task Force organised a meeting with the Parish Priests which was held on November 1st, 2017 at the Old Refectory Conference Hall at the Curia, Floriana. Furthermore, during the first two weeks of November 2017, several training meetings were held for the parish Supervisors and Assistant Supervisors at the same venue. During these meetings, Mr Michael Pace Ross gave the Supervisors and Assistant Supervisors a full briefing on the Census operation and organisation as regards their role in this exercise. Besides this the Coordinators were asked to appoint a Supervisor for each Church or place of worship within their Parish territory. Besides these they were also asked to build a team of Enumerators from their Parish. The Supervisors were basically responsible for all the Census operation at the Parish level. The role of the Supervisors, under the direction of the Coordinators, was to organise the logistics on Census Day, in the particular Church/ Place of Worship to which they were assigned by the Coordinator. The Supervisors and the Assistant Supervisors were responsible for the distribution of the questionnaire schedules and pencils during Mass and to those in the congregation who for one reason or another could not fill in the schedule themselves. The Supervisors of each Mass were responsible of collecting all the schedules which had been distributed, count them and put them in an appropriate envelope indicating the parish and the place where Mass was celebrated, day, time and the name of the celebrant.

In order to avoid the possibility of a particular Mass being ignored a circular was sent individually to all Diocesan and Religious clergy asking them to inform DISCERN of any special Masses (e.g. Masses for retreats, seminars, weddings etc.) which they would be celebrating on Census Day. Hence a list of places (consecrated or otherwise) where Masses were expected to be celebrated on Census Day was duly drawn up. The number of Masses included in this Census amounts to 985 celebrated in 323 Churches, Chaples, Religious Houses and secular places.

The filling of the Census schedule was to substitute the homily and the celebrant was to read detailed instructions to be followed by the members of the congregation to help fill the Census schedule correctly. To facilitate this a Power Point presentation was prepared by DISCERN and was sent to all parishes. Thus each individual question displayed on a screen so that it would be clear to the congregation to which question the celebrant was referring. This has proved to be very useful and had a very positive feedback.

In the days immediately following Census, either the Parish Priests or the Coordinators returned all schedules (including those which were not distributed) to DISCERN Office, where they were checked by DISCERN staff in the presence of the person who returned them.

When this operation was over, all filled schedules were scanned by Compuserve Ltd (and both the hard copy and the soft copy returned to DISCERN Office). Hundreds of replies which were not "read" by the computer programme were inputted manually by DISCERN's Staff and Volunteers.

The final stage consisted in transferring all this data to the SPSS computer programme and analysed by the research officers.

CONCEPTS AND DEFINITIONS

The following is a list of concepts and definitions used in the Census.

Age	Age as per last birthday
Attendees	People attending Mass anywhere in the Archdiocese of Malta
Attendance rate	The proportion of Mass attendees out of the total weighted Catholic population
Census Day	The afternoon and evening of 2nd December and the 3rd December 2017
Change in attendance 2005 - 2017	The difference between the amount of Mass attendees in 2005 and 2017
Employed	People in employment, include the clergy and members of Religious Orders
Married	Includes Catholic marriage, civil marriage, and civil union
Pensioner	A person who receives a pension, including pensioners who are still in employment

SUNDAY MASS ATTENDANCE IN MALTA

1. MASS ATTENDANCE

In 2017, the number of people who attended Mass on Census day was 111,578, ¹ or 36.1% of the Catholic population present in mainland Malta and obliged to go to Mass. As Table 1a illustrates, although a direct comparison with past censuses may not be strictly speaking possible, Mass attendance has been in constant decline from one Census to another over the past 50 years. Between 2005 and 2017, a twelve-year period, Mass attendance in Malta decreased from 168,721 to 111,578, a decline of 4,761 people per year. Percentagewise, for the period 2005-2017, Table 1b shows that attendance decreased by 14.5 percentage points (that is, from 50.6% to 36.1%) and that the number of people who do not attend Mass has been increasing from one Census to another since the 1960s. Between 1967 and 2017 the rate of change has increased from -0.61% (between 1967 and 1982), to -1.2%, registered between 2005 and 2017. Census results also reveal that there was a slight decline in the number of people who mentioned that they have attended Mass on Sunday prior to Census day. As shown in Table 1c 84.3% who attended Mass on Census day have attended Mass the previous Sunday too, down from 88.9% recorded in the 2005 Census.

2. THE AGE OF MASS ATTENDEES

More than half of the Mass attendees were at least 50 years old or more (57.8%). Figures show that on the whole attendees are an ageing population. Table 2a shows that, in 2017, the number of those in the age-cohort 7 to 49 years old who attended Mass on Census day was less than attendees in 2005; inversely, in 2017, the number of those in the age cohort 50 years and over was greater than the number of attendees in 2005.

Table 2b shows in percentage terms the attendance of different age cohorts in 2005 and 2017. A drop in Mass attendance was registered across all age groups, with the exception of people aged 65 and over. The highest decrease was registered amongst people aged 49 or less, where, in 2017, on average, 21 percentage points or less people attended Mass on Sunday than in 2005. Lower differences were recorded for people aged between 50 and 64 (-15 percentage points) and 65 and 79 (-2.7 percentage points).

2 Note: In this report reference to Sunday Mass includes Mass held on Saturday evening. From this Table onwards the total number of attendees in 2017 includes children below seven years who had a form filled on their behalf. The number of children below seven years amounted to 285 or 0.3% of all attendees.

3 Figures for 2005 in this and the following sections were revised in order to include all respondents including non-respondents (non-respondents are individuals who did not answer certain questions even if they were requested to do so). These revisions made figures for 2005 comparable to figures presented in this Census.

3. THE SEX OF MASS ATTENDEES

Slightly more than half of Mass attendees were women (53.1%). It is interesting that the ratio between men and women has remained almost unchanged for five consecutive censuses. Table 3b shows the proportion of men and women who attended Mass in 2005 and 2017. In 2017 31.5% of men and 38.7% of women attended Mass. In 2017, the proportions for both men and women were lower than in 2005; however the decrease in attendance was slightly higher among women (-15.3 percentage points) than among men (-14.0 percentage points).

4. THE CIVIL STATUS OF MASS ATTENDEES

Most Mass attendees were married (59.5%) followed by those who are single (25.0%) and the widowed (6.4%). As shown in Table 4, in 2017, however, the number of single persons attending Sunday Mass was lower than the previous Census. Lower Mass attendance among single individuals could be the result of a lower proportion of younger persons attending Mass on Sunday.

5. THE LEVEL OF EDUCATION OF MASS ATTENDEES

The level of education of Mass attendees improved between the years 2005 and 2017. Slightly more than a third of Mass attendees (35.1%) attained secondary level of education, while slightly less than a third achieved post-secondary level, or a higher level of education (31.9%).

6. THE OCCUPATION OF MASS ATTENDEES

Slightly more than a third of Mass attendees are employed or self-employed (35.3%). As shown in Table 6, in 2017, pensioners accounted for a higher percentage of attendees than they did in 2005, while the percentage of students was lower.

7. THE PLACE OF BIRTH OF MASS ATTENDEES

In 2017, 91.7% of Mass attendees were born in Malta, down from 94.5% of attendees in the 2005 Sunday Mass Census. The proportion of Mass attendees born abroad had risen from 2.7% in 2005 to 3.8% in 2017.

8. THE RESIDENCE MOBILITY OF MASS ATTENDEES

The number of people who attended Mass and stated that they had moved parish of residence in the previous 5 years had increased by 1.2 percentage points: from 9.4% in 2005 to 10.6% in 2017.

9. MOBILITY AND MASS ATTENDANCE

The percentage of Mass attendees who attended Mass outside of their parish of residence has remained practically unchanged since the previous Census. In 2017, slightly more than a third of Mass attendees (35.2%) went to Mass outside their parish of residence. Since Sunday Mass is presently the main point of contact between the faithful and their parish, the fact that more than one-third of attendees went to Mass outside their own territorial parish is a clear indicator of weakening parish ties.

10. SATURDAY/SUNDAY MASS CHOICE

The number of those who attended Mass on Saturday increased by 1.8 percentage points between 2005 and 2017, that is, from 30.3% to 32.1%. Almost one third prefer to participate in Mass on Saturday rather than on Sunday.

11. TIME OF MASS

As illustrated in Figure 11a below, 79.8% of people who attended Mass on Saturday afternoon and evening did so between 5:00pm and 6:30 pm (79.8%). The three most preferred times on Saturday were the 6:30 pm Mass (25.5%) followed by the 6:00pm Mass (22.3%) and the 5:00pm Mass (11.9%). Most attendees who attend Mass on Sunday, do so in the morning (80.1%) while less than a quarter attend the afternoon and evening Mass (19.9%). Figure 11b shows that on Sunday morning people attended mostly the 11:00 am Mass (14.2%) followed by those who attended the 8:00 am (9.5%), and 9:30 am (9.3%) Mass. Figure 11c shows that on Sunday afternoon and evening the most popular is the 6:00 pm Mass (28.7%) followed by the 5:30pm (20.3%) and 5:00 pm Mass (7.6%).

Tables 11a, 11b and 11c show that time of Mass attendance varies considerably according to the age cohort of the attendees. Young-adults aged below 35, prefer to attend Mass mostly on Sunday evening, followed by late Sunday morning and Saturday evening respectively. People in the older age cohorts are more likely to attend Mass earlier during the morning and/or afternoon. For example, 36.3% of Mass attendees during the 8:00 pm Mass on Saturday evening were people aged less than 35, while only 16.9% of Mass attendees present during the 6:30 pm Mass held on Saturday were people younger than 35 years. Similarly during the 11:00om Mass on Sunday 33.7% of the attendees were younger than 35, while only 14.9% of Mass attendees who belonged to the less than 35 years cohort were present during the 8.00 am Mass.

Finally, on Sunday evening 42.9% of Mass attendees present during the 7:00 pm Mass were people aged less than 35 years. The presence of people aged 35 or younger during the Sunday 5:00pm Mass (34.6%) was still relatively high when compared to other Masses held during Sunday afternoon and evening although still slightly less than the Mass held at 7.00pm. As regards Mass attendance of children aged 14 years or younger, the highest percentage was recorded during the Mass celebrated at 9:15am on Sunday (22.2%) followed by Mass celebrated at 10:15am (18.8%) and 9.30am (15.7%).

It is important to note that tables regarding time of attendance by age cohorts in all sections of this report do not include the number of those who did not reply to the question about age, hence when comparing tables or totals one should take this into consideration.

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF PARISH PROFILES

Table 13 summarises attendance results for every parish in Malta. Attendances declined in all 70 parishes with the exception of Manikata (263 more attendees), Had-Dingli (107 attendees) and Fleur-de-Lys (14 attendees). The attendance rates of local parishioners obliged to attend Sunday Mass varied from 54.9% in L-Imġarr to 15.7% in Il-Qawra. In contrast, in 2005, the residents' attendance rates varied from 79.1% in L-Imdina to 28.2% in Il-Qawra.

The parishes with the 10 highest resident attendance rates are situated mostly in the Western district and include H'Attard (47.9%), Hal Balzan (46.1%), L-Iklin (44.9%), Hal Lija (48.1%), L-Imdina (54.6%) and Ir-Rabat (47.1%), two parishes in the Northern district L-Imġarr (54.9%) and Il-Mosta (46.2%), and another two in the Northern Harbour district mainly Fleur-de-Lys (50.4%) and Birkirkara Santa Marija (44.0%). The 10 parishes with the lowest rates of residents' attendance are mostly those parishes situated in coastal regions and include Il-Balluta (24.5%), Birżebbuġa (21.7%), Il-Gżira (18.7%), L-Ibraġ (22.3%), L-Imsida (23.7%), Il-Qawra (15.7%), San Ġiljan (22.1%), San Pawl il-Baħar (20.4%), and Tas-Sliema Sacro Cuor (21.5%).

As shown in Table 1, residents' attendance rates of people aged 35 or younger varied between 36.2% in L-Imġarr to 5.2% in Il-Gżira. Attendance rates of people of a younger age tend to reflect the general trend of attendance rates in a given parish. Thus the higher the attendance rates of residents in the parish, the higher the attendance rates of the younger generation of residents. In contrast, parishes with low attendance rates were also more likely to experience low attendance rates of younger people.

The percentage of Mass attendees who were born abroad varied from 20.3% in Valletta San Duminku to 0.9% in Hal Għaxaq.⁵ Apart from Valletta San Duminku, high proportions of people born abroad were also recorded in Tas-Sliema San Girgor (15.8%) and Tas-Sliema Ġesù Nazzarenu (8.5%). Parishes situated in coastal areas were more likely to have high proportions of attendees born abroad. Other parishes not situated in coastal zones but which also experienced high proportions of attendees born abroad include L-Imdina (8.2%), Birkirkara Santa Marija (5.7%), In-Naxxar (4.1%) and Floriana (4.0%).

The highest rate of residents who attended Mass in another parish was recorded in Valletta Santu Wistin (58.0%), while Bormla had the lowest rate of residents who attended Mass in another parish (17.4%). High rates of residents leaving their parish to attend Mass does not seem to be related to a low rate of residents' attendance. Accordingly, a high rate of residents attending Mass outside their parish is a reality for both parishes with high rates of residents' attendance and parishes with low rates of residents' attendance and vice versa. Further investigation is required to analyse the main reasons why residents decide to leave their parish to attend Mass.

5 Masses are held in English, German and French in the Church of Santa Barbara and in Italian in the Church of Santa Caterina d'Italia both situated in the confines of the parish of Valletta San Duminku.
